CESAMES AND THE CONFERENCE CSD&M Asia

The Center of Excellence on Systems Architecture, Management, Economy & Strategy organizes every year since 2010 the international conference « Complex Systems Design & Management » in Paris, here below named the “Conference CSD&M”.

The objective of the Conference CSD&M is to cover the field of scientific and industrial topics related to the complex systems, through:

- Invited presentations given by scientific and industrial personalities of first rank at the international level;
- Scientific and industrial contributions - under format presentation and posters - selected by a program committee further to a call for papers;
- Displays of systemic modelling tools by important software editors in sector of the systems architecture.

As CSD&M has been a great success in France since 2010, its organizers have decided to create another event in the Asia-Pacific zone to enable Asian-Pacific participants to join in the debates in an easier way. CSD&M Asia was therefore created in 2013.
